Governor Cooper,

As an impacted landowner of the planned ACP and considering the future of my great-great-great-great grandchildren, I am appalled that you succumbed to whatever pressures there were and granted permits to the ACP pipeline developers.

I was so hoping that you would follow the lead of New York in refusing to permit an investment locked into outdated and wasteful fuel resources, when renewable technologies are available. I was hoping you would see that the health and safety of our people and our environment completely outweighs the puny expectations for economic development that are actually realistic from this endeavor.

In my opinion, disasters, pollution, erosion, water contamination, and many other problems with this pipeline will guarantee that your legacy decision is neither right, good, nor just for our state.

I do thank you for at least requiring more information before giving in, but I am saddened today by what I consider to be a terrible mistake on your part that will plague our state for years to come.
